FORMER SALEM MAN IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Russell Turner Fatally Hurt When Car Turns Over Near Akron

PENT MOST OF HIS LIFE HERE

Several Persons Injured In Accidents In And Near Salem Sunday

Russell C. Turner, 33, of Akron, formerly of Salem, was killed when his car turned over on the Akron-Medina rd. near Akron, Sunday afternoon.

Turner was pinned under the machine for 45 minutes while a bus driver was making a lone attempt to extricate him. He was released from a car from Akron arrived with a supply of gasoline for the bus and help for the rescuer.

It is believed Turner lost control of his car when passing a machine in the opposite direction. He died at Akron City hospital at 8 p. m.

Turner was widely known in Salem, where he spent most of his life. Several years ago he went to Akron with his parents and became associated with his father in wall paper business.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the home, 10 North Howard st., Akron. Burial in Akron.

Ban Is Placed On Processions After Weddings

A ban was placed today by Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston on automobile processions driving through the main streets of the city at a high rate of speed, honking horns, ringing bells, and sounding sirens, with the announcement that all motorists taking part in such processions will be given police tags and ordered to appear before him to face a nuisance charge.

Two motorists taking part in a procession celebrating a marriage Saturday were tagged and ordered to appear before the mayor tonight.

Hiddleston said that drivers on such occasions refuse to have any regard for city traffic rules, exceeding the business district speed limit, driving through traffic lights, and, in addition, driving past hospitals, continuing the noise.

FISHING TRIP TO SHOW HOOVER IS FIT FOR OFFICE

Palo Alto, Cal., July 23.—The four-day camping and fishing trip, on which Herbert Hoover will take his newspaper and photographer family to the Klamath river in northern California next week, will silence all Democratic innuendoes against his health, it was declared here today by his closest friends.

The Hoover outing, arranged at first to give the Republican nominee some rest and recreation before plunging into his campaign for the presidency, they said, will demonstrate once and for all that he enjoys the best of health, has a powerful physique and is subject to none of the physical weaknesses that usually undermine office executives.

On the trip the nominee and his party will ride about 800 miles in motor cars, travel by mule-back into the Siskiyou range to reach the Hoover fishing lodge, live out in the open by day and sleep beneath the stars at night. It was a question here whether the "tenderfoot" members of his party can match the pace certain to be set by the nominee.

Learn of "Attack" Plans

For some weeks past, rumors have reached his advisers that the Democrats plan attacks on Hoover's health. Such subtle campaigns have been known to rob a candidate of thousands of votes and the Hoover managers now feel the effect of such attacks. They declare Hoover will show he can climb mountains, sleep in the open, get his meals at a campfire and come home in better health and spirits than when he left.

The nominee spent Sunday quietly at his home. With Mrs. Hoover and son, Allan, he attended divine service at the University chapel and heard a sermon by Rev. Boyce Tupper, a Presbyterian minister of Los Angeles. The divine voiced an appeal.

CHARGES ZAPPI TOOK CLOTHING OF MALMGREN

Moscow Correspondent on Krassin Declares Socks And Overcoat Found

CLAIMS SCIENTIST ALSO ABANDONED

Reports Say Mariano Has Died of Gangrene; Name Of Dead Man Secret

Moscow, July 23.—Sensational charges that Capt. Zappi, one of the survivors of the Italia tragedy, not only abandoned Dr. Finn Malmgren, the Swedish scientist, alive, but also partially stripped him of his clothing were made today by the correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Vercherine.

The correspondent is aboard the Soviet ice-breaker Krassin, which rescued Zappi and Captain Mariano from their perilous haven on an ice-floe.

The correspondent further claims absolute confirmation for the statement that Zappi, when rescued, wore Malmgren's overcoat and heavy woolen socks.

Altogether, the correspondent claimed, Zappi wore three coats and three pairs of heavy socks, while Mariano was lying on the ice scantily clothed in a single pair of socks, his uniform, and overcoat.

As a result of his scanty garb, the correspondent charges, Mariano's leg froze, and its amputation later was necessary.

Mariano Hungry Long Time

The correspondent states that a physician who examined the two men after they were rescued found that Zappi had been without food for only five days and not 13 as he claimed. Mariano, on the other hand, had been suffering the pangs of hunger for a much longer period.

Expecting death momentarily, Mariano gave Zappi permission to devour his body after he died, the correspondent said.

He declares that while the seven survivors of the Italia rescued by the Krassin were aboard that vessel, they spent much time arguing over the necessity for an international investigation of the Noble expedition.

Noble Would Aid Rescue

Professor Samoylovich, head of the Krassin rescue expedition today stated that when he visited General Noble aboard the Clitta Di Milano, the Italian leader of the ill-fated polar expedition begged to be allowed to accompany the Krassin in its search for Capt. Amundsen's party and the six missing men in the Alessandri group.

Samoylovich said he consented with the understanding that the Soviet relief commission would have to approve. Noble at the time, said the Italian government was against his participating in the rescue.

New York, July 23.—John Henry Mears and C. B. D. Collier were deluged with congratulations today upon the successful conclusion of their trip around the globe by steamship and airplane in the record-breaking time of 23 days, 15 hours, 21 minutes and three seconds.

Landmark Makes Way for Modern Needs

Built nearly a century ago, this old house at Wooster, Ohio, was the birthplace and boyhood home of C. H. Henry, father of Mrs. Herbert Hoover (right), wife of the Republican nominee for President. It was purchased by a garage man, Boyd Cornelius, who is tearing it down to put up a garage. Cornelius offered to let Mrs. Hoover choose any mementoes she wished from the house. Mrs. Hoover sent Mrs. Alice Sprague (left), of Wooster, an old friend of the family, to make her choice for her. Mrs. Sprague got there just in time to pick a few of the balusters from the old stairway down which Mr. Henry used to slide as a boy.

REPORT 600 DIE FIGHTING JAPS

Nationalists Clash With Jap Troops Sunday On Strategic Railway

London, July 23.—Six hundred Chinese Nationalist troops are reported to have been killed in fighting with Japanese forces along the Tsin-Tao-Tsinfu railway in Shantung on Sunday, according to an unconfirmed dispatch from Tsingtau today.

A Peking dispatch to the Daily Telegraph reports that the Chinese Nationalist government, which now controls all China except Manchuria has broken off relations with Japan.

Warning on Unification

Peking reported the receipt of Tokyo advices saying that Japan "will take immediate steps to protect her interests in China."

Japan has warned Chang Hsueh Liang, military governor of Manchuria, not to attempt to unify Manchuria with the Nationalist administration in China proper.

Breach Wider Today

London, July 23.—The breach between Japan and the Nationalist government of China was wider today following Japan's reply to the Nanking government's note denouncing the Sino-Japanese commercial treaty.

Dispatches from Peking received by the Daily Telegraph indicated that the Japanese government viewed the Chinese denunciation as practically being an abrogation of the treaty.

John Evans, 27, Dead; Head Struck Rock In Beaver CREEK TOLL 3

John Evans, 27, Chester W. Va., formerly of Martins Ferry, died at the East Liverpool City hospital at 7 a. m. today from a broken neck sustained when he dived and struck his head on a rock in Beaver Creek, near the state line, three-quarters of a mile from Liverpool Saturday night.

Evans, a widely known baseball player and mill worker in Liverpool, had gone to the beach with a party of friends about 7:30 p. m. Saturday. He was the first to enter the water, wading out about 15 feet, and diving, not knowing that there was a rock near the surface of the water.

His head struck the boulder and he immediately sank from sight. Walter Yost, East Liverpool, a member of the party, noticing that he failed to appear, swam to the spot where he disappeared and brought him to shore.

Yost called an ambulance and he was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the third vertebra in his neck had been crushed when his head struck the rock.

Third Death In Creek

It was the third death in Beaver Creek in less than two weeks. Evans was a graduate of Martins Ferry High school and later attended Lexington, Ky., college. He was well known as an athlete. He spent most of his life in Martins Ferry, moving to Chester recently with his parents while he was employed in East Liverpool.

His parents, two brothers and a sister survive. He was unmarried. The body will be taken to Martins (Continued on Page 4)

FRENCH FLIERS HEADING WEST

Paris and Two Aides Land At Azores Early Today On Atlantic Flight

Horta, Azores, July 23.—Lieut. Paulin Paris, French flier, completed the first lap of his trans-Atlantic flight from Brest, France to New York when his plane, The Frigate, landed in the harbor here at 5:20 a. m. today (2:30 a. m. Salem time).

Paris was accompanied by Mechanic Marat, who also acted as relief pilot, and Radio Operator Cadou.

The flight from Brest was made in 14 hours and 20 minutes at an average speed of about 100 miles an hour.

From here they plan to fly to Bermuda and thence to New York, stopping at Bermuda for fuel if necessary.

If upon their arrival at New York he thinks a return flight feasible, Paris has been instructed by the French navy and commerce department, under whose auspices the flight is being made, to fly back to Brest by way of Newfoundland.

The flight of La Frigate is more a scientific than a sporting affair. It is the first French effort to cross the North Atlantic by a seaplane, and preparations for it have been in progress for more than a year.

The aviator, whose plane had been in perfect trim for weeks, received instructions from the navy department to take off at any hour that seemed propitious to him. He scanned the weather reports throughout the morning and then at noon ordered the tanks filled and hurried to his home to bid his family farewell.

Amateur Stunt Diver Leaps to His Death

Bellaire, July 23.—Authorities of two states today were dragging the Ohio river for the body of William T. Smith, 22, Wheeling, W. Va., who aspired to be an airplane stunt performer.

Smith dived from the wing of a plane, yesterday afternoon, into the waters of the Ohio, near Moundsville, W. Va.

His body never came to the surface.

MORONES OUT; TENSION EASED; BURY OBREGON

Mexico City, July 23.—Political tension eased up somewhat here today following the resignation of Luis N. Morones, secretary of industry, commerce and labor, and leader of the Laborite party, from the cabinet of President Calles.

Morones was a bitter political enemy of the late General Alvaro Obregon and enraged Obregonists had openly accused the cabinet member of being implicated in the plot which led to the assassination of the president-elect.

Two of Morones' acknowledged lieutenants, General Celestino Gasca, chief of the government commissary department, and Eduardo Moneda, head of the national lithograph department, resigned with Morones.

Investigation of the murder of Obregon today centered on a nationwide search for a man named Manuel Trejo and an unnamed friend. Trejo is said to have been the man who gave Jose De Leon Toral, the assassin, the pistol with which he shot and killed Obregon.

Trejo, the police said, was known to have been associated with certain leaders in the labor party.

In resigning, Morones and his two associates denied all implications that they were in any way connected with the slaying of Obregon.

Obregon Is Buried

Navojia, Sonora, Mexico, July 23.—Having paid their last respects to General Alvaro Obregon, who met death at the hands of an assassin, thousands of persons were making their homeward journeys today.

The burial, simple but impressive, was held at Huatabampo, a village southwest of here where the distinguished Mexican leader was born. Here General Obregon was laid at rest by the side of his mother.

Widow Seeks No Revenge

Harboring no desire for revenge, Senora Obregon remained in her hotel, surrounded by intimate friends and relatives. She will soon return to her ranch home at Cajeme.

"The only punishment I ask for the killer of Alvaro," she said, "is that he be brought here to see with his eyes the picture which he has created."

The special funeral train which brought General Obregon's body here will return to Mexico City either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Chiefs And Safer Confer With Mayor On Calls To Other Towns

APPARATUS FOR LOCAL USE ONLY

Answer Outside Emergency Requests on Payment Of Fee To Be Set

Salem police equipment and fire apparatus will be sent out of the city limits only in extreme emergencies, and only in cases when it can be done without jeopardizing the safety of the city, Mayor Phil C. Hiddleston announced today.

The announcement was made following a conference of the mayor, Chief of Police T. W. Thompson, Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy and Safety Director Rex W. Rugg.

Firemen and policemen will be sent out only upon demand by authorized officials of the community making the demand, and upon their statement that the aid of Salem policemen or firemen is an absolute necessity.

"We are glad to be of assistance to neighboring communities and to all persons, but the city cannot afford to go to the expense of maintaining local apparatus for out of town use in trivial cases. Many of these, as automobile accidents, can be taken care of without our aid. Our police and fire departments are maintained by the city and we intend to use them for local purposes unless special emergencies arise," Hiddleston stated.

The action was taken following the many calls received by the police department pertaining to automobile accidents and other minor cases that should be handled by deputy sheriffs or constables in rural sections the mayor said.

These officials should be notified and not Salem police, Hiddleston added.

In many cases the fire department has been notified that its help was needed on some bonfire or other small conflagration which could be reached only by driving over narrow dirt roads.

The heavy fire apparatus cannot drive over these roads with safety and it is several hours before the truck is returned for local use, the mayor declared.

Perry township is named as the limit for police and fire aid.

A plan for charging similar to one used by other cities, according to service given will be outlined for the use of apparatus sent out of the city limits, Hiddleston said.

SHOT IN LEG BY STRAY BULLET

Salem Boy Wounded while Sitting On Improvised Dam Near Winona

Matt Kuffeltrier, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kuffeltrier, Prospect st., was shot in the left leg Sunday afternoon by a stray bullet believed to have been fired by a hunter in the woods near Winona where Kuffeltrier and several boy friends were playing.

His injury is not serious. He was able to walk around for several hours, and it was not until late in the evening that his parents were informed of the accident.

He was rushed to the City hospital, which had lodged below the knee in the calf of his leg was removed and he was returned to his home.

Kuffeltrier and several youths were bathing in a small stream near Winona, building a dam in the water. Matt was sitting on the bank of the stream, watching his friends improvise the dam, when the bullet struck him in the leg.

The person doing the shooting, believed to have been hunting in a nearby woods, is not known.

CANTON SOCIETY WELFARE AGENT

Will Place Children In Home For County; First Time In State

The Canton Children's Welfare society will become the full time visiting agency for the Fairmount Children's home Aug. 15.

The contract has been signed by the commissioners of both Stark and Columbiana counties, doing away with visiting agents heretofore under the direct supervision of the institution.

It is pointed out that this is the first time such an experiment has been made within the state. The Canton agency will place children in private homes only after investigation as to the character of home best suited to the future welfare of the child.

After placement has been recorded, the representatives of the Canton society will make detailed reports to the commissioners of each county on the progress of each child so placed.

MINE WAR SETTLED

Abrogation of the Jacksonville wage agreement, so-called, in the coal fields has been brought about by the United Mine Workers of America themselves. Thus the greatest stumbling block to perpetual peace in the mining industry has been removed and there are indications that after years of strife and turmoil, strikes and lawsuits, this basic industry is on the road to an amicable settlement of its disputes and an opening up of the mines everywhere.

In the central competitive field—the Ohio, Kentucky and western Pennsylvania district—many of the mines have been idle for more than a year. Settlement of the difficulties which resulted in the closing down and inactivity of these mines will bring back to work thousands of men whose families have actually been face to face with starvation innumerable times during this let-down in their work.

District mine officials everywhere in the country now are at liberty to deal with mine operators for wage scales mutually satisfactory, rather than on the basis of the Jacksonville agreement, which arbitrarily fixed the wage scale which the miners demanded, and which precluded any deviation by the laborers, despite varying conditions in the several districts of the United Mine Workers of America. Thus the coal operator in the central competitive field may negotiate a wage agreement with the miners of his district completely independent of the wage scale similarly negotiated in the Indianapolis, or any other district or mine field.

In other words, the coal operators, by their policy of inoperability, have scored a decisive victory. The mine union officials have come to the conclusion that it is impossible and illogical to demand a uniform wage scale everywhere in the coal fields. Negotiation of independent wage scales, quite properly, should be taken up immediately by both the operators and the mine union officials of the several districts. There should be amiable discussions and satisfactory agreements. There should be no attempt on the part of the operators to cut wages among the miners. Likewise, there should be no attempt on the part of the miner's district officials to hold up the operators.

The way is paved now toward a perpetual agreement and peace policy in the coal industry. Let nothing arise in the negotiation of these separate wage agreements which will in any way impede a quick consummation of agreements and a reopening of the mines which have so long been closed down.

MAKE IT A LAW

Politicians sometimes flout tradition and gag at political scandal, and it appears here at the federal patronage mess uncovered among the folks of the G. O. P. in Georgia and Alabama is causing no end of stomach trouble among the brethren.

Jobs down there, it seems, are on the auction block, and this, the senate investigating committee agrees, is not at all nice. What to do? What to do? Should the politicians themselves borrow gas masks and go down into Georgia and Alabama themselves and clean out the mess? A logical and proper suggestion, but Senator Brookhart, presiding at the investigation, has a neater plan.

"The purpose of this committee," Senator Brookhart is quoted, "is to demand a law to stop such practices."

Now, there is a solution worthy of the most sagacious statesmanship. When an evil arises, sock it with a law; when men are inclined to dishonesty and would make a plaything of fair dealing, admonish them with a statute. The fact that this method of reforming the scoundwag does not always work should not deter Brookhart and the men of his committee. Who knows, after all, but what the millennium, after all, is just around the corner?

And inasmuch as Senator Brookhart is about to take his pen in hand there are a few things which pester a lot of the folks and which need—nay, demand—his particular brand of deep thinking.

The summer is too rainy for some of the vacationists and too hot for some of the golfers. Hay fever is making existence an affliction for some. Some of the children, 'draf'tem, insist upon eating green apples. Brookhart is eating. There should be a law.

What Others Say

HOOVER'S RESIGNATION

Secretary Hoover's resignation from the cabinet is a wise step. In the campaign in which he is now engaged he should stand before the country entirely as his own man. He has declared in a general way his intention of supporting and, if he is elected president, of continuing the Coolidge policies but no two men agree exactly on everything and he should be free to advance his own individual ideas on every issue, a thing he scarcely could do if he were still a member of another man's administration. In deciding to release him the president doubtless had this consideration uppermost in mind. It is not Coolidge that is running this time but Hoover. The Republican candidate's address of acceptance on Aug. 11, is awaited with the keenest interest by all intelligent voters. It will be his platform, dealing with the important issues, we have faith to believe, firmly and aggressively. It will not please every Republican, for some of the issues, one of them especially are sharply controversial within the party, but people do like a candidate who speaks his honest mind and such a candidate we have no doubt Mr. Hoover will prove to be. —Ohio State Journal.

BUS FORGES AHEAD

The sharp reduction in car mileage on the lines of the Pittsburgh Railways company, disclosed this week before city council, is not wholly explained by the growing use of motor coaches operated by a subsidiary, but in the fact that bus service is expanding in the sign of the times. Street cars ran 875,357 fewer miles in six months of 1928 than for the relative period of 1927; bus mileage for the same months of 1928 was 615,041, against 532,463 for the same period of 1927 and 302,667 for 1926. Earnings of the coaches are rising also; for the first half of 1928 the bus revenue was $347,527, against $204,426 for the same period of 1927 and $122,443 for the 1926 term. Increases so striking cannot but be taken as significant for a newer and developing trend, although the 60 buses now in operation are but a trifle in comparison to the 1,152 street cars running in the peak hours of every day last month. Patronage of the street cars is declining; that of the buses is increasing. In that there must be material for study by the experts of the utility company and of the city, which are now in partnership in the operation of the railways company. —Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

KELLOGG ANTI-WAR TREATY

Its wings flapping gently in anticipation the peace dove seemingly is about to alight on the shoulders of humanity. Unless all hopes fall at the last moment, the Kellogg anti-war treaty promises to have become an accomplished fact within a short time. With the exception of Great Britain and Japan, whose definite adhesion is expected momentarily, the powers invited by Secretary Kellogg to join the United States in outlawing war have accepted the revised draft without reservation. When the signing and the shouting are over, the world will have an opportunity to ponder more serenely upon the practical significance of what has been achieved. Those who have been inclined to ridicule the whole idea of war outlawry may then discover that, after all, the signatories have performed a valuable service in the cause of international friendship and good will. With the greatest and an array of the smaller nations pledged to banish war as an instrument of their national policies, a step will have been taken toward security and peace which can scarcely be less effective (and may well prove more effective) than the existing peace machinery of the League of Nations. —Detroit Free Press.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, July 24.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

THE mutual configuration between two of the most exciting planets may be responsible for a sudden avalanche of events or occurrences difficult to describe. Enterprise and initiative, as well as a leaning toward the unusual or unexplored, may be under high stimuli. It may lead into new ventures, but at the risk of old employment and contracts. With proper care it should open up great prospects. Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a lively and constructive year, probably in untried fields; and while the sudden change may jeopardize present connections, the adventure may prove of splendid benefit and in unusual ways. A child born on this day may have an array of unusual and original talents, with plenty of initiative to "put them over." This ingenuity should be cultivated and encouraged, as employment under others might prove irksome and unprofitable. Every eye born into the world bears a certain relation to the stars and planets. —Light and Truth.

PLAIN FOODS CONTAIN ENOUGH ESSENTIALS

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Fifteen chemical elements are required to maintain the body in health and to provide it proper nourishment. When I told this to a friend of mine and read him the list he said: "That sounds more like the inventory of a drug store than of the essential elements in the construction of a modern flapper."

Of these elements, the fats, sugar and starches we eat supply three. Five more are given by the protein foods, chief of which are lean meat and the white of egg.

Of the other 12 there are three—fluorine, iodine and silica—which are present in the body in very, very small quantities. The remaining nine chemical elements are minerals which are needed to give strength to the bones and to supply substance to the muscles. They furnish the salt of the liquids and juices of the body. Without such minerals the fluid part of the blood, the gastric juices and all the various secretions would be water alone. In that event they would not possess the acidity, alkalinity or other qualities essential to the proper action of these body fluids.

Without lime and iron and phosphorus we could not go far in our growth and activity. In Russia and the Central Empires of Europe, the lack of milk during the war deprived the children of their chief supply of lime. As a result there were many victims who suffered softening of the bones and the development of rickets.

Without an abundance of lime during pregnancy the bones and teeth of the expectant mother are drawn upon and she suffers in consequence. She may never recover from the evil effects of this lack.

Carrots, turnips, cabbages and oranges are rich in lime. Apples contain a good deal. Milk and cheese are the most available sources of supply for the average person.

Iron is needed for the blood. It assists in the process of carrying of the life-giving oxygen. Egg yolk, whole wheat, dried beans and peas, spinach, dried prunes and the nuts are rich in iron.

Phosphorus is needed by every cell of the body. The bones and muscles, and particularly the nervous system, cry for it. Fortunately this element is found in the foods which are rich in iron and lime, so if one is supplied all are likely to be.

The nitrogen and sulphur are furnished by the protein foods and these elements are present in pretty constant proportions—that familiar old political formula "16 to 1" is maintained here. Sixteen per cent of nitrogen to 1 per cent of sulphur is about the ratio in the common foods of this type.

To have good health you need not be rich and need not live at the Ritz. You can easily provide yourself with eggs, milk, good bread, the common vegetables I have named, and the simple fare which will give you bone, muscles, brain substance and well functioning organs. Then you may add the luxuries and the articles which tickle your palate.

An Event Women appreciate—Great Reductions on Merchandise All Sections of "THE BIG STORE" During

July Clearance Sales

A NOTE TO HOUSEWIVES

Housewives all know that July is the month of clearance at well-merchandised stores; that merchandise then is marked at a price low enough to sell it without effort, so that the space may be used for the incoming fall merchandise. Yet many housewives do not know about the fresh, lately received, stylish merchandise found in all sections, clearance-priced.

A WORD ABOUT QUALITY

Items for clearance, reduced so we make way for our new fall shipments, are all of the standard quality recognized as serviceable and dependable. Often items are counter-soiled; but chiefly they are odd lots of fresh merchandise, in irregular assortments and sizes. In every instance, now as always, the quality is superior to merchandise at the same price elsewhere.

A PROOF OF SAVINGS

Throughout the store are just the items you have been wanting, repriced when there are still two more months summer. Savings on one item enable purchase of more items; hence a more attractive and better equipped home family; and a greater service for the greatest department store. These advertised are proof of savings.

SWINDLER TAKES LANDRU'S PLACE AS BLUEBEARD

Another Frenchman Slays Women He Entices Into Marriage For Home

Paris, July 23.—"Bluebeard" Landru, slayer of 20 trusting fiancées, has been found reincarnated, police say.

Landru was guillotined, Rev. alias Camille Gaudier alias Jerome Prat, alias Etienne Merel, was arrested at Algiers after escaping from Marcellin, the scene of crimes with which he is charged.

Rev. is alleged to have strangled three middle-aged women. Police have indicated he may have done away with fifteen others, while 500 letters, documents, photographs and numerous articles of women's clothing tell the story of Landru-like living on an even wider scale.

Cheap Swindler

Landru was believed to have a sexual complex. Rev. is analyzed as a cheap swindler, preying on women over forty. When he was arrested he had a check for $1,000 from one of the slain women.

The new swindler through advertisements in newspapers, magazines and matrimonial agencies. Hundreds of women took at least one step toward the trap.

Rev.'s business of swindling and slaying was revealed in the disappearance of Mlle. Elsie Foe, age 42, from the Villa Eglantine. Knowing that she had apparently purchased the villa from Rev. and was expecting to become his wife, neighbors notified the police.

A swift investigation of the premises showed that cement in the chicken yard had been freshly laid. Beneath it were found two pits, one containing the body of Mlle. Foe. Rev. had another villa on the other side of town, the Villa Genevieve. In the cellar also beneath new cement, lay the bodies of Mlle. Marguerite Bonnet, governess aged 42 and Mlle. Jeanne Edet, a Dutch woman, about the same age. All three had been strangled by human hands.

The gardener at the Villa Eglantine testified he unwittingly dug the chickenyard grave for Mlle. Foe while she chatted with him.

Borrowed From Women

From several intended victims and documentary evidence found in Rev.'s third habitation, a downtown apartment, police learned how he worked.

"I have an option on a villa which costs $3,000 but I have only $2,000," he told the women. "Lend me the balance I will buy the villa in my name and we will be married. You will outlive a poor, old man like me and soon be the sole beneficiary of your small investment."

He always insisted on making out the bill of sale in due legal form, "to avoid the expenses of a notary." In this way he "sold" the Villa Genevieve twice and, it is feared, many more times. The women who deeded at the proposition did so because of Rev.'s eagerness to avoid official transaction.

Several widows with children answered Rev.'s advertisement. "I am object to children," he assured them. "I will be their father and we that they have a good education."

Rev. came to Marseilles a year ago from Tunis. North African authorities reported he was wanted at Algiers and Oran for minor thefts.

Ice Skating Parties Newest Social Rage Interesting Berlin

Berlin, July 23.—Ice skating parties in the drawing room are to be the rage in fashionable circles in Berlin this summer.

Artificial ice which is guaranteed not to melt even in the warmest temperature has been made possible by a marvelous new process of artificial freezing by means of a chemical preparation. This artificial ice can be laid down at short notice and for comparatively small cost on any floor without damage to the floor.

A rink of this ice has already been laid down at the Berlin "Lido" the luxurious swimming baths off the Kurfurstendamm, where Berliners are revelling in the sensation which they claim beats anything at St. Moritz.

The rink which has been laid out on an open-air terrace and is surrounded by a beach of specially imported Baltic sand, can be reached only by swimming through the pool.

Prominent hostesses are preparing to issue invitations for this freak entertainment at home for the end of June when it is expected hot weather will hit Berlin.

Karlovi Now Noor; Asks Poor Privilege

Budapest, July 23.—The privilege of the poor in lawsuits is claimed by Count Michael Karlovi, formerly one of the richest Hungarian magnates.

Count Karlovi, who was President of the Short-lived Hungarian Republic in 1918-1919, divided his vast estate between his peasants and devoted the rest of his fortune almost entirely to social welfare purposes.

When the monarchy was re-established, however, all edicts and orders of the Republican government were annulled and Karlovi himself was declared guilty of high treason. His property, estimated at more than ten million dollars, was confiscated and after long negotiations between the government and Count Michael's relatives, who denounced the former president, it was divided between the state and the relatives.

The ex-president, who is living in exile with his family, has recently instructed his Budapest lawyer, Dr. V. Nagy, to file a demurrer and demand a new and fair trial. The former millionaire, is, however, unable to pay the stamp-duties required by the courts and therefore claims the privilege of the poor.

Russians Execute 2 Former Hangmen Of Ex-Czar's Guard

Kiev, Ukraine, July 23.—Two volunteer hangmen who strangled to death an anarchist would-be assassin of the Czar 17 years ago have just been executed by the Soviets as "torturers and murderers." Revolutionary vengeance knows no statute of limitations and on the 17th anniversary of the execution of Dimitri Bogrov for murder, two former members of the Czar's guard, Sergeyev and Kuznetsov, faced a firing squad and paid with their lives for their part in the hanging.

Bogrov, a member of Kiev's sub rosa anarchist organization, and at the same time of the Czar's secret service, fired two shots into the royal box at a gala performance of the opera in Kiev in 1911. Although intended for the Czar, the shots missed their mark and instantly killed Governor Stolpin, one of the honor guests. Bogrov had been detailed to the opera as a part of the special guard to prevent an expected disturbance.

In his confession at the trial he was forced to name other members of the revolutionary organization, but he took full blame upon himself and refused to give sufficient evidence to involve others in the murder. When he was sentenced to death, Sergeyev and Kuznetsov offered their services as executioners.

The men whom Bogrov protected vowed vengeance, and although all records of the case were destroyed by fire, they waited until the fortunes of revolution gave them

Better "today"

YESTERDAY'S fashions are not the fashions of today. Not only are fashions in dress constantly changing, but our daily habits and mode of living are subject to a steady process of evolution.

Conveniences have been invented and placed in use—and life is happier, easier for them. Every year, almost every day, sees some new thing of beauty, of use or for our pleasure introduced. And they are invariably brought to our attention by advertising.

Advertising is the medium that is responsible, in large measure, for the rapid and constant improvement in our living conditions. Without advertising this old world would be a dull and dreary place. With it, we progress; we learn about new things that we need—to shorten our tasks; to make ourselves more presentable; to brighten our leisure hours. Spend a few minutes with the advertising in this newspaper. Keep up to "today."

Section of Madison Township Road Bad

R. E. Keltner, former county superintendent of state highways in Columbiana county, now division engineer with headquarters at Ravenna, following a conference with Clerk L. H. Johnson of the board of county commissioners, declared that his office has not received any information from headquarters offices at Columbus when any improvement will be made on the brick section of the Lincoln highway in Madison township.

This section of the Lincoln highway is under the jurisdiction of the state highway department, and because of the thin foundation the top surface is becoming exceedingly rough. Last year the state did considerable cold patch work on this section, and it may be that similar improvements will be made this year.

peal for religious freedom to which Hoover listened attentively. He first discussed Christianity is "spiritual" and that "there can be no mathematical demonstration of God."

"God keep America the land of unlimited opportunity and freedom," the minister concluded. "And above all, keep this a land of unrestricted religious and personal liberty."

Catholics Sit Near Him

The services were in keeping with this thought. Hoover, a Quaker, attended them with his neighbors of different creeds. Some Catholics were in the pews and the services were conducted on a non-sectarian, non-denominational program.

The nominee resumed work this morning on his acceptance speech. He hopes to conclude it by the middle of the week. At noon, he was to discuss his role of candidate by playing host to Senator Hiram J. Pomeroy, his one-time political foe.

Johnson has endorsed him and Hoover asked the senator here to discuss plans for the coming campaign. By this action, Hoover averted any possibility of a split in the Republican party in California, such as cost Charles Evans Hughes the state in 1916 and brought about the election of Woodrow Wilson.

Harpers Says All of Ohio Insane Hospitals Filled To Overflowing

Columbus, July 23.—Gov. Donahay today was informed by John Harper, director department of public welfare, that no action can be taken to remove patients from the Massillon State hospital as requested by Supt. Dr. Hyde, of the institution due to Dr. Hyde in a recent letter to Harper, said:

"We are in a serious crowded condition and to give us some relief on the female side, which I feel is the most essential, I am wondering if it would be possible to transfer 35 women to one of the other institutions that is not so crowded."

Director Harper told the governor that this same condition prevails throughout the state hospitals for the insane saying they are from 50 to 75 per cent overcrowded due to the fact that for many years the legislature has neglected these hospitals by not making appropriations for buildings sufficient to take care of the normal increases in the patient population.

Gov. Donahay said today that he will make a request to the legislature to consider seriously and appropriate funds for the state insane hospitals before he leaves office next year.

Rumors Say Mariano Dies

London, July 23.—Rumors were current today that Capt. Mariano, rescued survivor of the Italia tragedy, had died of the effects of his long exposure to arctic weather conditions.

A Central News dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, stated that there had been a death aboard the Citta di Milano, aboard which General Nobile and the other rescued men of his expedition are now being cared for.

The dispatch said that the name of the dead man was being kept a secret. Mariano's leg was frozen before he was rescued by the Soviet ice-breaker Krassin and it was necessary to amputate it because gangrene had set in.

Two other men aboard the Citta di Milano are said to be suffering serious injuries—Capt. Zappi, who was rescued with Mariano, and Ceccioni, mechanic of the Italia, who suffered a broken leg when the dirigible's gondola crashed.

Malign Is Damaged

Moscow, July 23.—The Russian ice-breaker Malign, sister ship of the Krassin, has been damaged in a gale while returning to Archangel to refuel, said a radiogram from the commander today.

The Malign, which was compelled to halt its rescue work by lack of coal, ran into a terrific storm upon entering the White sea. Waves dashed completely over the vessel and ice rammed a hole in the side of the hull.

Repairs were made while the pumps were kept working at full speed.

Will Probe Polar Flight

Rome, July 23.—The Italian government will make an inquiry into the conduct of the Noble Polar expedition. Premier Mussolini announced today.

In his announcement which was made at a cabinet meeting, Premier Mussolini protested against "the anti-Italian wave of criticism of the unskilled expedition, whose members have shown courage worthy of universal respect."

The inquiry, the premier added, will not be opened until relief parties have exhausted every possibility of finding the missing Alessandro group—the six men who were carried away with the envelope of the Italia on May 25.

In an effort to take the flight of the "Sturt" class and make it in reality a scientific experiment, the naval department instructed the aviators to use "the greatest prudence." No efforts were spared for the safety of both men and the plane. Aboard there was sufficient food for some days should the plane be forced down. If the west-round flight is successful, Lieutenant Paris expects to spend only a few days in New York and then start homeward by way of Newfoundland.

STATE EXAMINER HITS CLEVELAND

Cleveland, July 23.—In a report made public today, State Examiner Will E. Heck scored the city of Cleveland's methods in the insurance of its public property, citing alleged discrepancies and irregularities.

Included in Heck's charges are the following:

That the city is paying premiums on buildings that no longer exist; that certain insurance agencies have been favored by each city administration; that premiums have increased steadily for the last 15 years and that more insurance is being carried on the garbage collection terminal than on the city hall.

Heck concluded his report with a recommendation that the city put its insurance business on a sound basis or carry it out.

HOMEWORTH

There will be a reunion of all former pupils of the Homeworth High school at Placencia Lake, August 3 at 4:30. A picnic supper will be served.

MAN SLAIN AT NEW GALILEE

New Galilee, Pa., July 23.—Sam Ranata, 51, is in the Beaver county jail, charged with the murder of Joe Custozzo, 31, at the Ranata home here late Saturday night.

Ranata gave himself up to state police immediately following the killing.

Ranata declared, police say, that Custozzo, a brother of his son-in-law, Louis Custozzo, demanded $100 from him under pain of death. Ranata had paid the man $25 he said and last night learned he was coming for the other $75.

"I didn't have the money and I knew he would kill me so I waited and shot him," Ranata told officers. Ranata concealed with a rifle in the second story of his little home, fired one shot. The bullet passed through Custozzo's chest.

Custozzo, police declared, came to this country about one year ago by way of Mexico and had collected considerable money by posing as a member of a secret organization.

AL COMPLETING SPEECH HE WILL GIVE IN AUGUST

Will Deal With All Campaign Issues, Specially Dry Law, Farm Aid

Albany, N. Y., July 23.—Although the date for his notification has not been fixed because of radio complications, Governor Al Smith expects to make a final draft this week of the address he will deliver on that occasion, it was indicated today.

Because he will deal extensively with every campaign issue in his notification speech, particularly prohibition and farm relief, the governor is determined to have the ceremony broadcast through radio stations in every part of the country. As yet, however, he has not been able to obtain assurances from the National Broadcasting company that the nationwide hookup can be secured for the hours on the night he has in mind.

Settle On Aug. 20 Week
It is understood the governor has settled on the week of August 20 for the notification and that he will prefer either Wednesday or Thursday night if proper radio arrangements can be made.

The notification ceremony will be held on the steps of the state capitol where for 20 years the governor has been a familiar figure, first as a member of the assembly, then as leader of that body, and finally as chief executive. In front of the capitol there is a spacious park which can easily accommodate the 100,000 Democrats expected to attend for the event.

Mayor John Boyd Thacher this week will announce the appointment of a committee of leading citizens to aid in planning the details of the ceremony. The mayor already has announced that on the night of the notification all streets in the vicinity of the capitol will be closed to traffic.

May Confer With Ritchie
Indications are that the governor will remain at the mansion all week. On Thursday night with Mrs. Smith and members of the family he will go to Schenectady for the wedding of the daughter of former Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn.

There is a possibility that the governor may confer the latter part of this week with Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

"I don't know as there is anything in particular that I would like to talk to Governor Ritchie about, but I would like to see him just the same," Smith said.

Mrs. Smith and other members of the family are understood to have urged the governor to take a short vacation either in the Adirondacks or the White mountains after he completes his notification speech.

To Establish Jungle Clinic to Give Aid To Disease Victims

New York, July 23.—In an effort to prove what he hopes is a cure for sleeping sickness, Dr. Warren K. Stratman, Thomas, 28, research pharmacologist of the University of Wisconsin, will sail on August 2 for the jungles of the interior of Belgian Congo.

Under the direction of Professor A. S. Loevenhart new arsenical compounds have been developed and prepared at the University of Wisconsin which it is felt will enable men to conquer the scourge of centuries it was announced today. Sleeping sickness is said to take a toll of 100,000 human lives each year.

Dr. Stratman-Thomas will establish a large clinic in the jungle where he will treat thousands of natives with the six various compounds of the new drug.

The expedition is being financed by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation, of which Henry Allen Moe is secretary.

Secretary Wilbur Visits President At Brule On Way to California

Superior, Wis., July 23.—Carrying an encouraging report on the conditions in Nicaragua, where the United States marines are maintaining order preliminary to the holding of a national election, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur arrived here this morning to be an overnight guest of President Coolidge at Cedar Island lodge. Mrs. Wilbur accompanied the secretary.

Wilbur is enroute to California to take part in the ceremonies incident to the notification of Herbert Hoover of his nomination for the presidency on the Republican ticket. Later the navy chief will review the Pacific fleet maneuvers. Shortly after Wilbur's arrival, Thomas Cochran, member of the J. P. Morgan firm of New York, reached Brule to spend a night with the executive.

Cochran succeeded Dwight Morrow when the latter accepted the ambassadorship to Mexico, and it was reported he planned to urge Coolidge not to overlook Morrow when selecting a successor to Herbert Hoover as secretary of commerce.

G. O. P. TAG DAY PLANS MADE TO HELP CAMPAIGN

Washington, July 23.—Although refusing to set a limit on campaign contributions, the Republican National committee plans to make a real effort to finance the election fight with small donations. National Treasurer J. R. Nutt declared today.

With the acceptance of John W. O'Leary, Chicago banker, of an invitation to head a small contributions drive, plans were being formulated to hold a "tag day" throughout the country.

The committee headed by O'Leary will seek contributions under $100. Every contributor, under the plan, will receive a receipt.

MOVE TO CHECK PRIVATE CARS

Privilege Abused, Charge Of I. C. C. Commissioner Citing Vans' Rides

Washington, July 23.—An effort to check the abuse by railroad officials of the private car privilege was sought today by Commissioner Frank McManamy in a report to the Interstate Commerce commission.

As a chief complaint McManamy pointed to the wide spread use of official cars in carrying persons to amusement resorts.

He urged the commission to hold that movement of private cars by one railroad for another without cost or at a rate below the published rates should be held contrary to the provisions of the interstate act.

The commission was also asked to hold that it is unjustly discriminatory and unduly preferential and prejudicial to haul such private cars of other roads free or at less than published rates, while charging certain minimum fares and revenues for the movement of privately owned or chartered cars.

The transportation of persons in private cars, including berth and meals, at the rate charged passengers provided only with ordinary coach accommodations is unjustly discriminatory and unduly preferential, the commission was further asked to hold.

One of the instances cited by McManamy involved eight private cars of the Nickel Plate, controlled by the Van Sweringen brothers, of Cleveland. During a three-year period these cars travelled 254,000 miles on foreign lines, while foreign line cars travelled only 26,000 on the Nickel Plate. An analysis of the trips showed that the cars travelled to Florida, California, Michigan, Maine, French Lick Springs, Hot Springs and White Sulphur Springs.

Tunney Will Fly Or There Will Be No Fight Malone Hints

BY DAVID J. WALSH
New York, July 23.—It would be strange, indeed, if, after all the talk, there were no fight for the heavyweight championship of the world on Thursday night, but you think I'm turning comic in a matter you ought to talk to my friend, the barrister, Dudley, or, if you insist, to my friend, the boxer, Gene Tunney. He is said to be around Madison Square Garden today intimating that he is not the only thing that is going to give the young man a good time is the understanding that he was speaking for the boy friend, Brother Tunney himself. The writer unfortunately cannot vouch for what Dudley said. He merely can tell you what he is said to have said, the authority for same being an official of the garden corporation. The alleged statement, in effect, was that, if Rickard persisted in getting out his injunction restraining Brother Tunney from flying hither to Speculator on the morning of the fight, the boy friend would be so miffed that he wouldn't come to Mr. Rickard's party at all.

Back as Barrister
Dudley has been Tunney's barrister, off and on, for several years. It was my understanding that recently the connection in question was off because it was out, after the manner of a superfluous hair or something but when he turned up to heckle Rickard over the week end, the inference was that it was on again. For Dudley quickly declared himself as representing Brother Tunney in the aerial or perhaps merely airy controversy now raging.

The status of the matter otherwise remained, as was, this morning. Brother Tunney insists that he will fly down to the fight on Thursday, a distance of 260 miles, with Balchen, pilot for Commander Byrd's trans-Atlantic flight, at the controls. Rickard says the good man has no right thus to endanger his. Rickard's interests to say nothing of Heene's and those of the good old pay-trons, laugh them down, laugh them down. Rickard also says that he will enjoy the gentleman if he does not alter his plans before sundown today.

He was expressing himself along these lines this morning when Dudley uttered his threat that, of all the millions who are planning to stay away on Thursday night, one of them might prove to be Brother Tunney.

Walsh Doubts Such Plans
Personally, it is my hope some day to give you a time-exposure of a man steadfastly staying away from more than a half million dollars. I am working at present on an idea that will portray this scene in all its interesting details but am sorry to state that the apparatus isn't quite perfected for the present emergency.

But it is fact, not fancy, too, that Rickard and the boy friend are putting on no act with this controversy. Rickard almost swooned when he learned that Tunney was flying to Philadelphia from Stroudsburg for the first Dempsey fight in 1926. He has been against flying fighters ever since. As for Brother Tunney, he means to fly down from Speculator or, if he really meant to use other means of transportation, he would be leaving the camp not later than tomorrow night. Besides that, it might be mentioned, in this connection, that there was no hoax about his illness during the Stroudsburg to Philadelphia flight.

No, this strange man, Gene Tunney, undoubtedly intends to go flying on one of the most important days of his life.

COMISKEY AFTER BABE RUTH FOR HIS WHITE SOX

Attendance Poor, Owner Would Boost Interest By Buying Bam

Chicago, July 23.—Old Charley Comiskey—the "Old Roman"—is toying with his money bags. In fact it may be stated Charley is about ready to shoo caution to the four winds of the heavens and give a mighty pull on the purse strings.

Rumors about Comiskey doing "the mad thing" have been bruited about so freely of late that they have culminated in a report he intends to attempt to purchase Babe Ruth for his ball club—the lowly Chicago White Sox.

Attendance Poor
Attendance at White Sox games in Chicago has been almost pitiful this season—except when the New York Yankees played here. Some crowds at Comiskey park were down to 3,500 and 4,000 persons but when the Mighty Bambino came to Chicago 40,000 jammed the stands.

Those who claim to be in on the know assert that attendance in all cities in the American league is suffering because of the decided advantage held by the Yankees. That the New York owners have decided to "even things up" by selling Ruth to the Sox is planned, according to report.

Comiskey is reported ready to offer Jake Ruppert of the New York club a vast sum for Ruth and in addition it is said an additional bonus for Ruth would be paid by the other six clubs in the league, each contributing a sum of money in exchange for the added gate receipts they would receive if Ruth played with Chicago.

Seek Drawing Card
It is figured, some fans claim, that the Yankees would still be a big drawing card without the Babe and that with Ruth on the Sox the present drawing power of the Yanks would be duplicated in the Ruth-Sox combination. Thus the league would boast two super-drawing clubs.

Comiskey has not spent much money in recent years for ball players. He is believed to have seen the error of his ways and is reported now ready to wipe out past mistakes with one mighty gesture—Ruth's purchase.

Ruth's sale to any ball club would undoubtedly set a new figure for a player's services. Many fans believe a ten year contract with the Bambino would bring $1,000,000 or more.

ATHLETICS AND CUBS ARE MOODY

Did Great In Series But Still Trail Leaders In Major Loops

New York, July 23.—The Athletics and Cubs are beginning to arrive at the conclusion that trying to overhaul the Yankees and Cardinals is like cheating at solitaire—there is little profit or pleasure in it.

During the interseasonal series just concluded the A's won 12 games out of 16—the best record in the league—but the Yanks copped 12 out of 18 and are 10½ games in front. The Cubs won 13 out of 17 on their home lot but gained only a game and a half on the Cards, whom they trail by four games.

The rejuvenated White Sox, with ten wins in 17 starts, were the only other American League team to get better than an even break. Features of the National League were the spurt of the Pirates, who won 11 out of 14, and the flop of the Giants, who dropped to fourth place. Each of the western teams in the senior circuit won at least two-thirds of its games.

Hafey and Hurst, both hit for the circuit as the Cardinals nosed out the Phillies in the ninth, 8 to 7.

Root held the Giants to four hits, beating them 4 to 2. The Pirates nosed out Brooklyn, 6 to 5, after Dazzy Vance had white washed them 5 to 0. Vance whiffed eight batters, bringing his strikeout total for the season to 112. Pat Malone, the speed boy of the Cubs, is his nearest rival with 92.

Cincinnati came from behind to nip Boston, 5 to 4. Washington trounced Detroit, 8 to 2, and jumped ahead of Cleveland to fifth place. The Indians took an 8 to 5 beating from the Browns.

Windjammer's Day Is Passing On Sea As Old Boats Quit

San Diego, Cal., July 23.—The day of the windjammer is fast becoming only a chapter in the history of the sea. The full rigged ship "Star of Falkland," of the Alaska Packers fleet is pounding to pieces in Alaskan waters, having gone around several days ago while enroute north for the salmon trade. The Star of Falkland was one of the scant half dozen windjammers still in active service anywhere on the seven seas.

Another windjammer, the Star of India, is tied up at the docks in San Diego and will never go to sea again. It is now the property of the Zoological Society of San Diego, the gift of James W. Coffroth, sports promoter and former San Franciscan.

The Star of India, like the Star of Falkland also went aground in the far north. It started from San Francisco, April 12, 1910. May 18 it went aground in Bristol Bay. The officer who wrote the log was somewhat illiterate but he drew in what he wrote down an impressive and graphic word picture of a ship in distress. The log now in possession of zoological society of San Diego follows.

"On the Evening of the 21st. of May 1910 about from 10-12 the Wind Encreasing to a Strong gale, Paid out to 45 fathams on the Starboard chan and Dropped the Port Starboard and Paid out 30 fathams on that chan, ship still Dragging anchors Paid out more chan on the 2 anchors Paid out to 60 on the Starboard and 45 on the Port chanes still Dragging at about 12. "Rock From Down Under" Ready for Tunney Fight

Charley Harvey Predicts Challenger Will Give Fans a Surprise

By JAMES Y. KEENE
International Illustrated News Sports Editor

WHEN the old "rock from down under," as the sports writers have playfully nicknamed him, Tom Heene, Australian heavyweight challenger, climbs through the ropes at the Yankee Stadium on the night of July 26 for his 15th fight with Gene Tunney, the champion kingpin of Flatland, you can bet that Charley Harvey's word for it is that he will give a good account of himself.

Heene is Tom's American manager and a keen student of the boxing game. He doesn't fancy any of the usual "good" words, likeable, hospitable, Charley always glad to talk to the "good" press of extolling the Heene name and the Heene ring name. If confidence can be commended from one person to another, Heene should go in there supping out of his ability not only to stand off the Tunney onslaught in the 15 rounds, but that he will return the winner.

What is Heene's fighting qualities? Compared with Dempsey, Heene is four years younger and will be at least ten pounds heavier when he faces Tunney than was the Manassas Mauler in either of his losing bouts with the Maros. The challenger is three inches shorter than Dempsey and two shorter than the champ. He isn't a knockout slugger like the former champion, but he is stronger physically and a better boxer.

Heene HAD to be clever to outpoint Tunney in the Garden last year—and he was. The Frenchman was a myth whenever he tried to swing or hook it to the blacksmith's shop. Heene was rated higher than Paulino, Hansen or Godfrey as a ring scientist, yet Heene usually lost him at his own game.

punishment. None of his antagonists has been able to flatten him for the count of ten. His endurance and incessant aggressiveness are noteworthy features of his methods inside the ropes, for he is a long-distance fighter who improves as the battle progresses. And always he has plenty of vitality in reserve.

Now here is the line of reasoning which Heene's friends follow in arguing that their man will triumph over the champion: If Tunney, in superb physical condition, couldn't knock out Dempsey in two ten-round bouts, although the latter was not at his best, how can the champion expect to stop Heene before the end of the fifteenth round? The challenger's friends are ready to bet that the fight will go to a decision, and they have an idea that Heene, after ten or twelve rounds, will be the stronger and may wear Tunney down by sheer endurance and pugnacity.

wealthy Boston couple, with Miss Wilson as Mrs. Grey a character that is cold, orderly and possessing a sense of romance that has never been developed. She finds her husband in an innocent position with her girlhood friend, Lilyan Tashman, and suspects the worst.

Immediately she is off for Paris for a divorce. She loves Philip, her husband but refuses to back down. In Paris, to forget past events she starts to enjoy life, to forget the prim, formalities of Boston and transform herself, through fine, modern clothes, into an up-to-date flapper.

She meets Clive Brook, a Paris man-about-town, and unconscious of the fact that Brook, Miss Tashman and her husband are conspiring to awaken her to the fact that her case against her husband was all a misunderstanding she goes with Brook on several parties.

An excellent and fitting solution is worked out to the advantage of both parties, and Mr. and Mrs. Grey return home in love more than ever while Brook and Miss Tashman also arrange a matrimonial understanding.

"CHICKEN A LA KING"

At the Grand tonight, "Chicken a la King," a story of a drab little wife that has permitted herself to be brow-beaten and bullied for 29 years, and suddenly awakens, featuring George Meeker and Nancy Carroll is shown tonight.

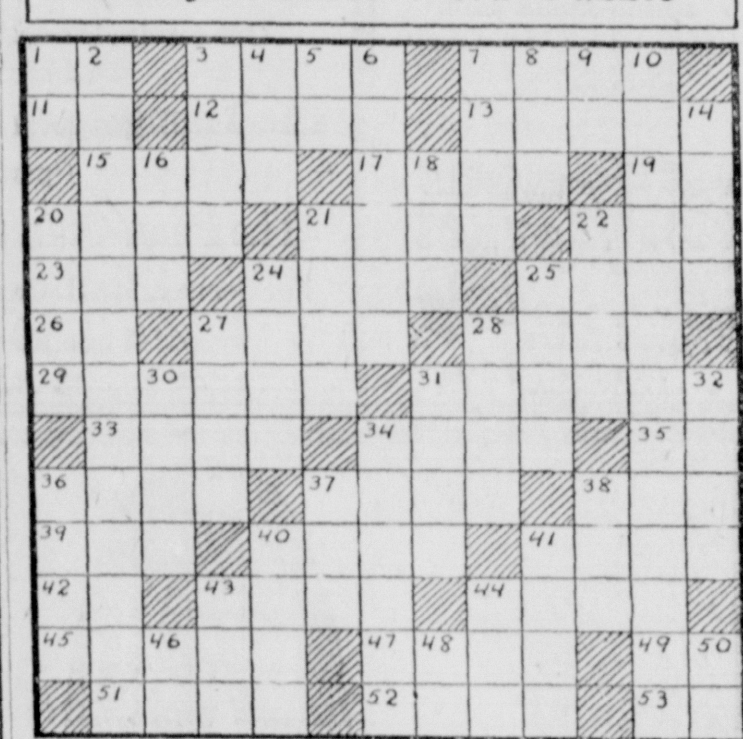

The story is set in actual backstage atmosphere, with Ford Sterling and Arthur Stone assisting the leading actors in feature roles.

The plot concerns a middle aged married man who strays from his cosy fireside and becomes a leading figure in the night life of New York. He becomes interested in a burlesque girl who has an idea that the correct world would suffer a loss unless she receives immediate voice culture.

With the aid of a girl chum, she makes a play for his favors and is installed in a magnificent apartment with the best vocal teachers at her disposal.

However, friend wife gets wind of his generosity and in a novel manner receives the benefits of his largesse and brings him back to the fold, very much crestfallen.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

The Importance of Kitchens

To help Summer brides we are going to suggest necessities for the simple kitchen that are needed to start housekeeping for a family of two people.

A mixed kitchen we have found the most satisfactory, that is, part enamel ware, part aluminum, a little glass, and steel frying pans. Two of the latter, large and small, an omelet pan, a potato pot of aluminum, three saucepans of aluminum and three of enamel ware in different sizes. An aluminum griddle, and a waffle iron are sure to be needed. A tea kettle, a medium sized enamel soup pot, that may also be used for a ham boiler, and a very small one for sauce or frosting making. A chopping bowl and knife, a meat chopper, a group of nested earthen ware bowls and another of the enamel ware.

A set of refrigerator dishes, a butter pot, a spice box, a tea caddy, coffee canister, wooden sugar bucket, a covered roasting pan, an open roasting pan, bread, cake and layer cake pans, nutmeg and a large grater, a colander and a handled strainer, coffee and tea strainers. Bread board and knife, moulding board and rolling pin, flour sifter, biscuit cutter, muffin pan, lemon and orange reamer, ricer, potato masher, funnel, egg beater and frying basket, coffee pot, tea pot, kitchen pitchers, measuring cup, basting and mixing spoons, one wooden spoon, pastry cutter, a few moulds and baking shells, dish pan, shears, can opener, coffee mill, and the usual cutlery.

STYLE EDICTS

Boston, Mass., July 23.—"Women have gone back to cotton with a sigh of relief. It has been made smart because it is such a comfortable fabric," said Mrs. James H. Cooper, Jr., chairman of the style advisory board of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

"Cotton has made a new place for itself in the big society events this spring and printed cottons and cotton voiles are seen frequently," Mrs. Cooper continued. "Lisle sweaters with open fish net lisle hose to match are very smart. Quilted pique coats for town are very effective. Velvetene was highlighted at all the big race meets."

Mrs. Cooper said that new fashion tendencies whispered that square necks will be the new note, and she predicted that cotton lace in blouses and dresses will be used this summer. "With the lisle stockings here, anything in a mesh net like a jersey weave is going to be popular."

"For years women have looked longingly at the perishable chiffon lingerie but it was too perishable. Now cotton lingerie is becoming the vogue again in new printed dainties and voiles."

"Millinery is important as it is a definite sign-post of color. The house of Agnes in Paris stresses light grey, soft green, bright red and much black," the chairman of the style board declared.

Beauty Seeks Alimony

Charging that Reginald V. Hiscoe, her broker husband, had made a fortune for himself out of an $8,000 nest egg, Mrs. Hiscoe (above), noted society beauty, is asking $5,000 a month temporary alimony and $7,500 counsel fees pending the outcome of her separation suit. She accuses her husband of cruelty to her.

Jaunty Sailor Effect

This youthful, sleeveless sailor frock of white with a very new sailor collar, has been most popular this season. The coat of blue flannel boasts brass buttons and nautical emblems. The ensemble is helped along by the fact that Louise Brooks is wearing it.

COLUMBIANA

The H. J. Harrold Tool Co. recently sold the patent and manufacturing rights on their rubber-handled screw driver to a large concern in the west and will in the future feature a wood-handled screw driver, along with other small tools. This company expects to increase the production. In the last two years over two million of the rubber-handled screw-drivers have been made here.

Mr. Rex, a division representative of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., told Columbianna village council that the type of crossing being installed at South Main st. is the finest type used. The job will cost $7,500 and will be completed within the next two weeks. Council decided that Woodland ave. will have a reinforced concrete pavement 24 feet wide. Residents of Fairfield ave. have not specified the type of paving they desire. These two streets will probably not be paved before next summer, as the village treasury is practically empty at present.

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Strubel are spending their vacation with relatives at a summer camp at Slate-lick, Pa. During Rev. Strubel's absence, the pulp committee of the Presbyterian church will have charge of the arrangements for church services. There will be no preaching services this Sunday.

The Sunday evening union services will be held this week in the Methodist church, with Rev. C. A. Funk of the Christian church as the scheduled speaker.

NICE GIRLS ARE BEST ATHLETES SPRINTER SAYS

Don't Live for Parties,
Says One of Them Who
Derides 'Roughness'

London, July 23.—"People often think that sporting girl is rough and ungracious. Don't you believe it. Is there any argument why a girl should not be able to run like a deer and still be a dear?"

So states Miss Violet Piercy, one of the most famous woman runners of Britain, who has just spent a day's holiday in a little jaunt from Mitham to Stamford Bridge—a distance of 26 miles which she accomplished in under four hours.

"Most of the nice girls I know are athletes," says Miss Piercy. "They like dancing and parties. So do I. But we don't live for them."

"Neither do we spend our time powdering our noses in dusty boudoirs. We like as much fresh air as we can get. That is the great difference."

"Many men—and women too—think that girl athletes are of no use to the home and that they fail to make good mothers. Sheer bunkum!"

"As for running, no girl need be afraid of taking it up, even if it is Marathon running. Running does not demand a jarring of the muscles. If you develop a correct style it is not difficult to travel long distances without experiencing sheer fatigue."

When she is not running, Miss Piercy is private secretary to a famous London doctor.

"Physical jerks" and health exercises, between debates to enable M. P.'s to keep fit, is the suggestion of the New Health society.

It is believed that the proposal will not meet with much support, as many M. P.'s declare they indulge in vigorous forms of sport. Among them are:

Mr. Lloyd George—Plays golf, and favors long walks.

Walter Runciman—Yachts, shoots and fishes.

Sir T. Robinson—Is a keen cyclist and motorist.

T. D. Fenby—Owns a forge in Yorkshire, and when there wields a sledge-hammer almost every day.

This is the story of how Alfred Frieda, fifteen-year-old son of George Frieda, Fleet-street barber, achieved fame as a tonsorial artist after only three months' work.

An apprentice in his father's barber shop, Alfred at first only practiced his art on the assistants in the shop, until one day, becoming comparatively facile in his work, the elder Frieda told him he might practice on a customer.

The regulars at the shop knew the boy was only a learner, and so for some weeks Alfred was forced to continue his experiments on the assistants.

Then one day a man with a genial smiling face and a fine expanse of shaving surface walked in. Papa Frieda did not hesitate a second. "You're next sir," he said, and to Alfred, "Shave the gentleman."

Alfred was delighted, and performed such a good job that the stranger came in again and again, always asking to be shaved by Alfred.

Then one morning the elder Frieda happened to glance at an illustrated newspaper. Calling Alfred, he exclaimed excitedly, "Do you recognize this gentleman?" Alfred beamed. "Yes," he said. "That's the gentleman with the fine face that lets me practice on him."

The caption beneath the photograph was: Lord Hailsham, Lord Chancellor of England?

After living for four and a half years in a chalk cave ten feet square, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fones are now threatened with eviction.

The Kent County Council, owners of the chalk pit where the cave is located, have obtained an order for possession within a month.

Fones has never paid rent, rates or taxes. He has proclaimed the cave an "ideal home," and although his comfort and conveniences were few, the eviction order has dealt him a hard blow, and he is making every effort to retain his "home."

HANOVERTON

A new bridge is to be erected on the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon in Hanover township, at an estimated cost of $424,850. It is announced by State Highway Director H. J. Kirk.

Bids for this project are to be opened at Columbus next Friday afternoon. The new bridge is to have a road clearance of 24 feet and it will be 43.5 feet in length.

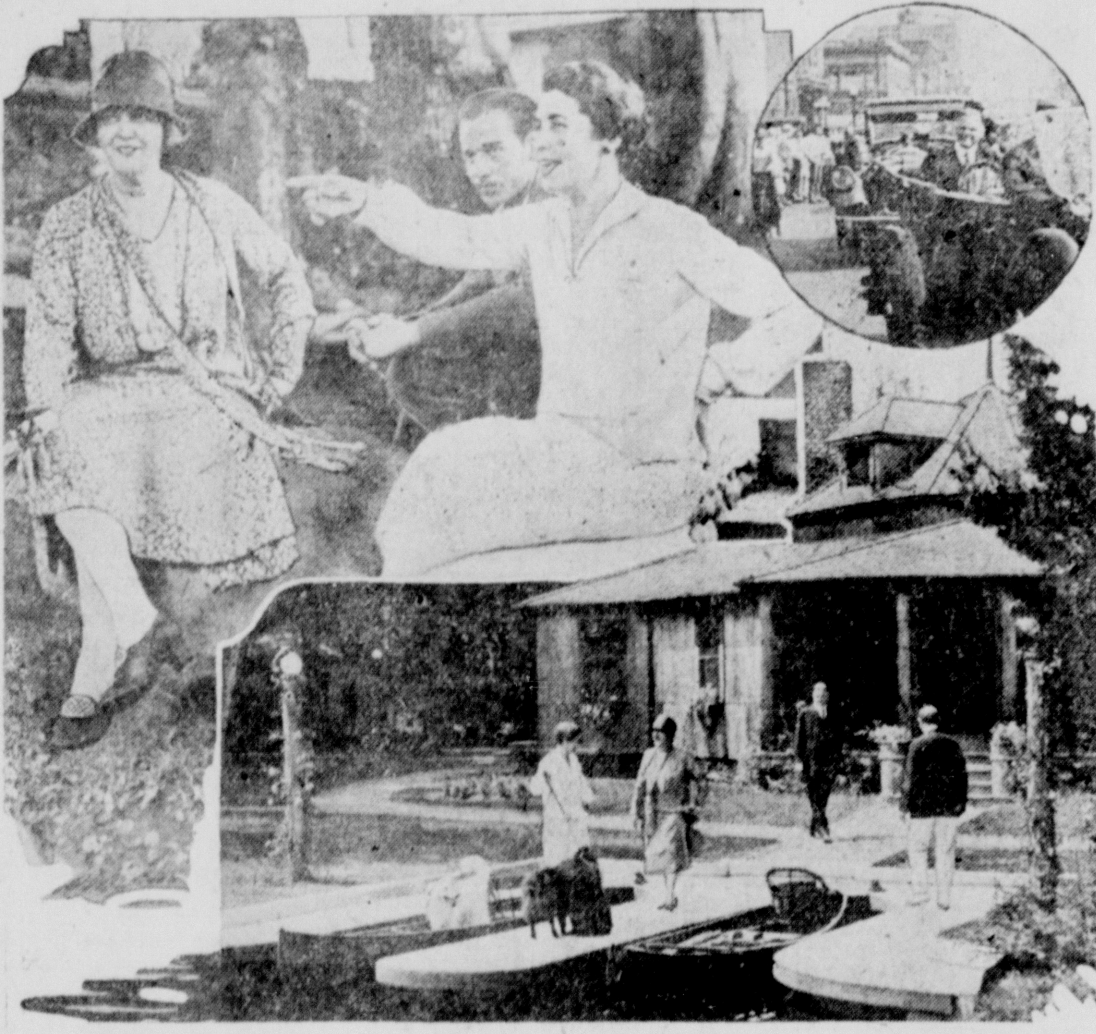

Work on three major bridge projects in Columbiana county has been seriously handicapped during the last few days on account of swollen streams, and until waters recede little if any progress can be made.

The heavy rains have interfered with work on the new bridge on the Lisbon-Salineville road south of Gavers, where Beaver creek has been running almost bank full. The same situation has been reported concerning the retarding of work on the new bridge on the Lincoln highway at the south corporation line of Lisbon.

Bridge work on Main st., Salineville and also at Wellsville on account of swollen waters in little Yellow creek has also been greatly delayed.

New York—Arrested for soliciting alms from women on their way to work, Daniel Sugrue, 65, showed his resentment to being called a "bum" by boasting in court that he had $20,000 in the bank. Sugrue was sentenced by Magistrate Simpson to the workhouse for six months. Police found $170 on his person.

Salem Has More Phones Than Bolivia, S. A., Statistics Show

Ohio's 1,200,000 telephones are more than the total number in all of France, Italy and Spain combined, as shown by figures for those countries in the telephone and telegraph statistics of the world, released today.

The latest available figures show 818,971 telephones in France; 272,433 in Italy, and 131,519 in Spain. There were 29,378,430 telephones in the entire world on Jan. 1, 1927, which is the most recent date for which figures could be obtained from the distance countries. On that date there were 17,746,168 telephones in use in this country, or more than 60 per cent of the world's total.

H. M. Huffman, commercial manager for the Ohio Bell Telephone company, says that figures supplementing the report show that Salem has 2,600 telephones, or more than the entire South American country of Bolivia, which has 1,324, and nearly as many as in Canton, China, which has 2,900 telephones for a population of 934,000. Canton has one telephone for every 325 of population, while the Salem ratio is one for each five inhabitants.

All the nations of Asia had 928,000 telephones, or fewer than those in service in Ohio. South America had only 427,746 and Africa 186,546. In all Europe there were 8,080,442 telephones, which is less than one-half of those in the United States.

In the United States there were 153 telephones for each 100 people, as compared with only 1.6 telephones for each 100 in Europe. The only country approaching the United States in point of telephone facilities was Canada, with 12.6 telephones per 100 inhabitants.

A notable feature of American Telephone development is the large number of telephones in the smaller towns and the rural districts. In communities of less than 50,000 population in the United States, there are 12 telephones per 100 people, which means that the people of the smaller American communities are better provided with telephones than are the residents of most large cities of Europe.

Northeastern Ohio Seed Wheat Sought

Seed wheat of standard Ohio varieties is being sought by the service bureau of the Ohio Farm bureau federation, it is announced by County Agent Floyd Lower.

This seed wheat is for fall sowing. Representatives of the service bureau are now searching in northeastern Ohio for such seed wheat and where the only wheat in quantity is left this year.

Trumbull and Fulhio seed is being sought and the bulk of the tonnage that will be obtained will be absorbed in the main by southern Ohio counties where it is said there is great need for such seed.

INDIAN WARFARE WARM AS CHIEFS FIGHT IN LONDON

Two Use Bitter Words To Prove They Rule All
Tribes In America

London, July 23.—In London, far from the wide open spaces of the once wild west, an Indian warfare has broken out.

Running Deer, chief of all the Mohawk tribes, better known as Os-Ke-Non-Ton, is in open rebellion against Big Chief White Horse Eagle, of the Osage tribe, who claims to be the paramount chief of all North American Indians.

Not with tomahawks and terrifying war cries are these two chiefs battling, no, for they have become too civilized for that. But their feud is just as bitter as if they were leading a thousand warriors against each other. It is a battle of words. Malicious, indignant words.

Denounces Chief Running Deer denounces Big Chief White Horse Eagle's claim to the title of paramount chief, and laughs at the suggestion that he is 107 years of age.

"Who ever heard of a horse eagle," sarcastically declares Chief Running Deer. I don't even believe he is an Indian. Indians do not make such foolish mistakes.

"Last winter White Horse Eagle was in New York making foolish women and girls queens and princesses of Indian tribes. The 400 Indians in New York protested."

"Mr. Charles H. Burke, the United States commissioner of Indian affairs, could not trace White Horse Eagle, and said he had no authority to make chiefs."

Emphatically denying the statements made by Chief Running Deer, which he declared emanated from a "crooked tongue," White Horse Eagle, looking marvelously preserved for his years related how he became paramount chief.

"I was made chief of all the Indians 87 years ago on Lookout Mountain, Colorado. I remember sitting on my spotted pony with my hand over my eyes, gazing over the lowlands at the wagon trains making their way westward.

Caught Wild Horses "My father was Chief Wak-Cha-Ya. I used to chase wild horses, and I could run faster than they. Always when I caught a wild horse it was a white one. I would tame it in an hour and bring it back to the tribe. That is how I got the name of White Horse."

Then branding as a lie the statement that he had sold titles in New York, the aged chief continued, "As for the title of Eagle I earned that by catching an American bald eagle and stripping its feathers out."

NICE GIRLS ARE BEST ATHLETES SPRINTER SAYS

Don't Live for Parties,
Says One of Them Who
Derides 'Roughness'

London, July 23.—"People often think that sporting girl is rough and ungracious. Don't you believe it. Is there any argument why a girl should not be able to run like a deer and still be a deer?"

So states Miss Violet Piercy, one of the most famous woman runners of Britain, who has just spent a day's holiday in a little jaunt from Mitcham to Stamford Bridge—a distance of 26 miles which she accomplished in under four hours.

"Most of the nice girls I know are athletes," says Miss Piercy. "They like dancing and parties. So do I. But we don't live for them. Neither do we spend our time powdering our noses in dusty boudoirs. We like as much fresh air as we can get. That is the great difference."

"Many men—and women too—think that girl athletes are of no use to the home and that they fail to make good mothers. Sheer bunkum!"

"As for running, no girl need be afraid of taking it up, even if it is Marathon running. Running does not demand a jarring of the muscles. If you develop a correct style it is not difficult to travel long distances without experiencing sheer fatigue."

When she is not running, Miss Piercy is private secretary to a famous London doctor.

"Physical jerks" and health exercises, between debates to enable M. P.'s to keep fit, is the suggestion of the New Health society.

It is believed that the proposal will not meet with much support, as many M. P.'s declare they indulge in vigorous forms of sport. Among them are:

Mr. Lloyd George—Plays golf, and favors long walks.
Walter Runciman—Yachts, shoots and fishes.
Sir T. Robinson—Is a keen cyclist and motorist.

T. D. Penby—Owns a forge in Yorkshire, and when there wields a sledge-hammer almost every day.

This is the story of how Alfred Frieda, fifteen-year-old son of George Frieda, Fleet-street barber, achieved fame as a tontorial artist after only three months' work.

An apprentice in his father's barber shop, Alfred at first only practiced his art on the assistants in the shop, until one day, becoming comparatively facile in his work, the elder Frieda told him he might practice on a customer.

The regulars at the shop knew the boy was only a learner, and so for some weeks Alfred was forced to continue his experiments on the assistants.

Then one day a man with a genial smiling face and a fine expanse of shaving surface walked in. Papa Frieda did not hesitate a second. "You're next sir," he said, and to Alfred, "Shave the gentleman."

Alfred was delighted, and performed such a good job that the stranger came in again and again, always asking to be shaved by Alfred.

Then one morning the elder Frieda happened to glance at an illustrated newspaper. Calling Alfred, he exclaimed excitedly, "Do you recognize this gentleman?" Alfred beamed. "Yes," he said. "That's the gentleman with the fine face that lets me practice on him."

The caption beneath the photograph was: Lord Hailsham, Lord Chancellor of England?

After living for four and a half years in a chalk cave ten feet square, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fones are now threatened with eviction.

The Kent County Council, owners of the chalk pit where the cave is located, have obtained an order for possession within a month.

Fones has never paid rent, rates or taxes. He has proclaimed the cave an "ideal home," and although his comfort and conveniences were few, the eviction order has dealt him a hard blow, and he is making every effort to retain his "home."

HANOVERTON

A new bridge is to be erected on the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon in Hanover township, at an estimated cost of $4,248.50. It is announced by State Highway Director H. J. Kirk.

Bids for this project are to be opened at Columbus next Friday afternoon. The new bridge is to have a road clearance of 24 feet and it will be 43.5 feet in length.

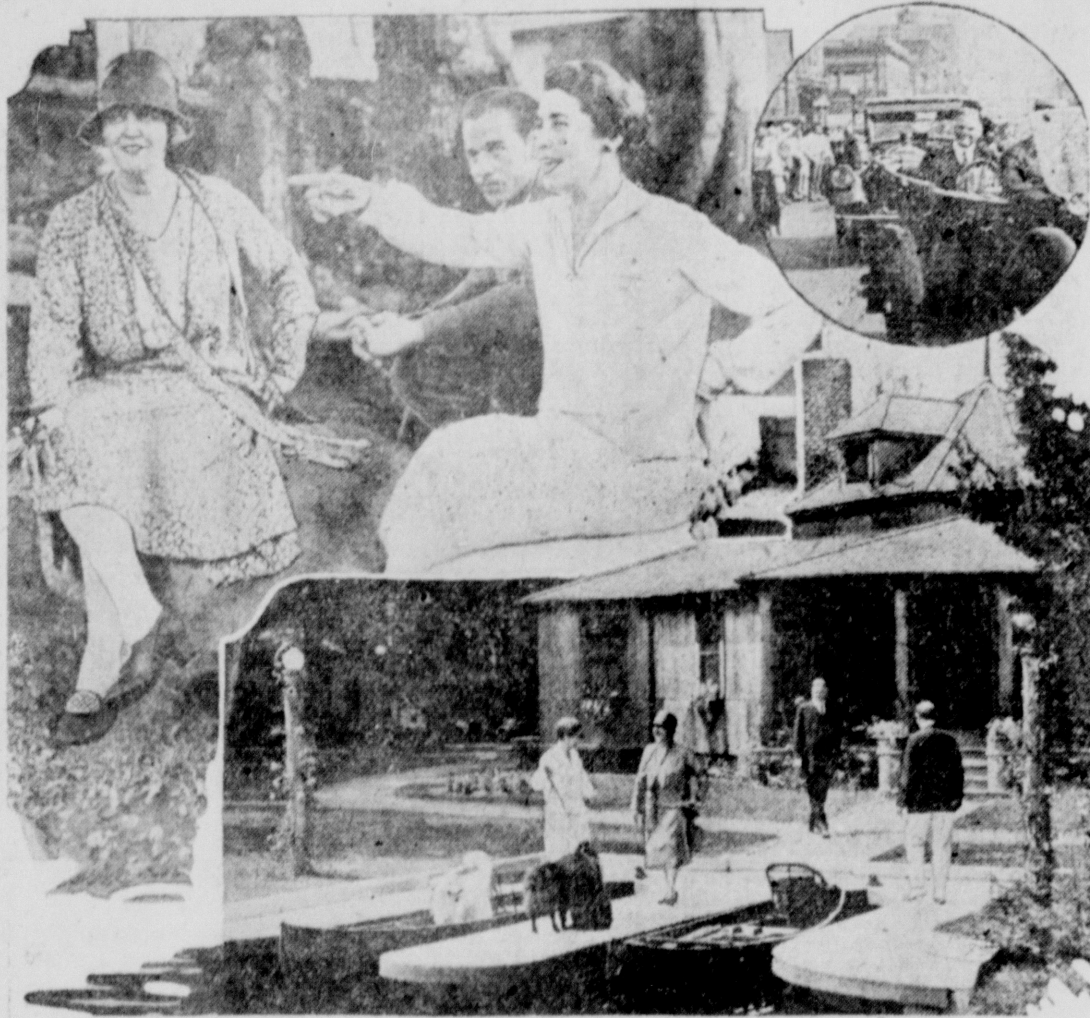

Work on three major bridge projects in Columbiana county has been seriously handicapped during the last few days on account of swollen streams, and until waters recede little if any progress can be made.

The heavy rains have interfered with work on the new bridge on the Lisbon-Salineville road south of Gavers, where Beaver creek has been running almost bank full. The same situation has been reported concerning the retarding of work on the new bridge on the Lincoln highway at the south corporation line of Lisbon.

Bridge work on Main st., Salineville and also at Wellsville on account of swollen waters in Little Yellow creek has also been greatly delayed.

New York—Arrested for soliciting alms from women on their way to work, Daniel Sugrue, 65, showed his resentment to being called a "bum" by boasting in court that he had $20,000 in the bank. Byrd Tells Who Is Fitted For Hardships in the Arctic

Says Dreamer-Fighter Is Best Combination for Exploration

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff Writer

THE drama that is being unfolded for newspaper readers in grim Northeastland prompts the question: Just what type of rugged manhood is best suited to withstand the hardships of Arctic exploration?

Impetuous youth or wiry, experienced age? The brilliant bookworm, gifted also with good muscles? What about the married man? The smoker? How far does family history count?

Commander Richard E. Byrd, in his recently published book, Skyward, answers these queries in interesting fashion.

"I am inclined," he writes, "to put age as the first limiting factor. Youth will be served. The young man has zest and ambition. He has an internal machinery not long out of the factory, longs instinctively for combat with man or nature—and he cares little which."

"Briefly, I should say that the average man does not get his full strength until after twenty and reaches his peak around twenty-five. He is close to the downhill slide—physically—before he is thirty-eight. The ages between twenty and thirty, therefore, would seem best fitted to endure privation and hardship and look unconcernedly upon the bright face of danger."

"I am frequently asked if the phlegmatic man isn't better fitted temperamentally to undergo hardships than his more imaginative brother. I don't believe he is. If a man lacks imagination he is inclined to let things slide."

"Amundsen, Peary, Scott and Shackleton were men of laconic, grim personalities, yet their writings, their friends, their works all testify to the heights of fancy their ardor could carry them to on occasion. It was their combination of dreamer and fighter that largely set them apart from their fellows."

Commander Byrd says that a year of isolation and hardship in the Arctic does things to men that are never dreamed of in ordinary life. He adds that few leaders but know of dozens of cases in which a fine athlete at home became a menace in the field. For instance:

The man who turns up with a weak digestion or lungs; the man who goes "native"—wants to eat, live and dress with native negligence; the man who becomes hysterical in a tight place and wants to fight; the man who is a secret drinker; the man who blows up when his tobacco is gone; the victim of homesickness; and, finally, the man who, when he is tired, can't stand the other fellow's banjo—or his singing.

The explorer extolls the late Floyd Bennett as his ideal of a comrade in a pinch, for Bennett's calm nerve never once deserted him in their sojourns in the Arctic.
